

COURSE SCHEDULE FOR DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY STUDENTS IN RENEWABLE NATURAL RESOURCES

All Ph.D. RNR students in their initial semester should discuss the program of study with their Advisory Committee during their qualifying exam, identifying what courses the student will take and the semester to be taken. Completed forms should be provided to the student, all members of the Advisory Committee, and the Administrative Assistant in charge of Student Services in room 227 of the RNR Building. The form should list all courses that will be completed by the student, and any waivers of required courses should be initialed by the Committee Chair. Note that all Ph.D. students are required to take 57 hours of credit beyond the B.S. degree, 9 of which will be RNR 9000. No more than 6 hours each of RNR 7029 or RNR 8900 will be counted towards the degree.
